

Dr Dababrata Chowdhury, BSc(Com-Eng) DipLT,PgCAP,MBA,PhD.

Dr Chowdhury is an Associate Professor in Entrepreneurship and Knowledge Management at University of Suffolk(UCS).He graduated from the Department of Computer Science & Engineering at Hacettepe University in Turkey and completed his Masters of Business Administration (MBA) and PhD at Plymouth Business School in UK . His PhD work involves examining the importance of Knowledge Transfer and Networking to the development of SMEs in Turkey. His teaching interest is International Business, Entrepreneurship, Knowledge Management and Marketing. His research interest is small and medium-sized business development/growth in new product develops with Collaborations (Networks-Knowledge Transfer) and adoption of new technologies. The collaborations between firms, universities and investors in the clusters located in emerging markets/network relationships in nationally and internationally and finally, analysing the importance of trust for KT mechanisms in different SMEs nationally and internationally. He is a member of five professional organisations, including the British Academy of Management (BAM) and The Institute for Small Business and Entrepreneurship (ISBE). In addition, he is a visiting lecturer and PhD external for Karachi University in Pakistan, Canakkale OnsekizMart University in Turkey and Kazakh–British Technical University in Kazakhstan.

See more at: <https://www.uos.ac.uk/people/dr-dababrata-chowdhury>